STOCK MARKET OPERATIONS Stock market values were heavy in the greater part of the day, with maximum declines of 1 per cent. and more in many of the active issues, while at the close the greater number of securities showed net losses as compared with the final quotations of the preceding day. Lower prices for American securities in London and heavy foreign selling in the local market naturally exerted an adwerse effect on speculative sentiment, while the latest developments in connection with the Equitable Life affairs, the expectation of higher rates for money and the tendency on the part of many holders of stocks to take profits induced activity on the part of the board room element on the down side of the market. There was, however, little important liquidation, the larger interests maintaining a firm grip on their possessions in the confident belief that prices will sell higher in the course of the next few weeks. The larger interests are well supplied with stocks which they hope to dispose of at better prices, and unless there should be some extraordinary change in the situation governing money and business in this country the chances will favor, for a time at least, bull operations in securities. In the early trading and throughout the day the Street agricultural section of the country, but as little was actually known regarding the character of the report, which was not issued until after the close of business, the rumors of adverse conditions really were not important factors in the violence in the afternoon, and as a consequence net losses of 1 per cent. and mere were common in the active shares. Metropolitan, New-York Central, St. Paul, Sugar Refining, Reading and

Southern Pacific lost more than 2 per cent. Last Current developments in money are about in line with expectations. Great difficulty is being encountered by the banks in their efforts to increase their cash holdings. It appears unlikely that the banks will be able to add to their reserves by acquisitions of cash this summer, which naturally implies that they will be compelled to call in loans to meet the demand for money to move the crops. While the banks might seem to be desirous of obtaining as high rates as possible for their money, they are confronted with other considerations at the moment. It is not to their advantage to have trouble in the money market, although it might result for a time in steep money rates, particularly as any real disturbance in money probably would derange the situation to an extent that would impose loss on the lenders as well as on the borrowers. What the banks really prefer and seek are fairly stiff and steady rates, and they presumably may be relied on to co-operendeavor to control lending quotations. Admittedly it would be idle to attempt to regulate the supply of money. Therefore, the next best thing may be essayed. If disturbing pyrotechnic flights can be averted, a good deal certainly will be accomplished. Up to the present time the management of the money market has not been a serious matter, but the future doubtless contains problems that will prove more or less puzzling, especially as there will be a heavy demand this fall for funds in connection with financing the crops. It should be borne in mind that the inquiry for money this year will come at a time when the loans of the New-York banks are unduly expanded and the reserve above legal Considerable space has been given to the condition of the money market in this column in the last two weeks for the reason that The Tribune is anxious to keep its readers posted regarding one of the greatest controlling influences in the Street; also for the reason that the best informed bankers believe that the general public should have a clear understanding of the probable course of the money market in the fall. The mere fact that money may rule at a higher level in the autumn months does not necessarily mean that the bear element on the Stock Exchange will be able to bring about a materially lower range of quotations. There have been many bull markets with call money higher than it is at present, and unless there should be a radical change in the conditions requirements is unusually low.

The Kaffir market was irregular and rather inclined to sag. Money was easy enough. There may be some temporary demand on account of the Japanese loan subscription and the settlement begun yesterday may also make some temporary pressure, but rates are likely to rule light.

MARKET GOSSIP.—There is good reason for saying that the American Hide and Leather preferred stock bought in the market in the last few days was for officers of that corporation and their friends. The heavy selling of Union Pacific in the first hour by Hollister & Babcock frightened the room bulls a good deal, as the same house had been the heaviest seller of the stock on Monday. Nervousness about the dividend was ment begun yesterday may also make some tempo

The heavy selling of Union Pacific in the first hour by Hollister & Babcock fright-sened the room bulls a good deal, as the same house had been the heaviest seller of the stock on Monday. Nervousness about the dividend was the given reason, but plenty of traders thought it was a case of the market suffering for lack of a public to sell to. It is said that the Weil following has sold its long stock and taken the short side of the market. Some of the selling in Erie was believed to be for this clique. One of the features of the early afternoon trading was the resumption of selling by the foreign houses on prof. 112
